It is true, as snagested in argument, that the slave is alleged to have been bought in South Ca ding, and that it is not alleged or shown that the plaintiff co dl not legally acquire there a tale to the slave by parchase.

But this is willy immaterial. The plaintiff here is seeking to enioree a right, or to recover for the violation of a right, which is ex pressly withheld from him by law. And whatever may have feen his legal capacity to in the slave, it is quite certon that he is incu-Kentucky, and of course can have no right to recover for the alleged conversion. The judgment is affirmed.

The Potato Disease in treland.

The Cork papers state that the blight in it oldest and worst form has attacked the potato crop in that quarter. The last of its actual appearance there has been several times noticed in the local journals, but the tale is now tohl with more circumstantiality than usual, puble of holding or owning such interest in and is no longer set down as a llying rumor. The Examiner says: "We regret to say that, so far as has come under our observation, in the rural districts around the city, potato discase is becoming very general. In one instance that has come to our knowledgy a splendid field of fifteen acres, excellent land and highly cultivated, the crop on which was at one time expected to realize £500, is now become absolutely worthless. In many cases half and even two-thirds of the crops have been Lest. An estermed correspondent informs us that the blight has set in with deadly virulence along the coast from Kinsale to Clona-

GERINE LAPERIENCE.

The Last Hullet. AN INCIDENT OF COMMODORE STEWART'S AL-

The United State's slup-of-war Constellation was anchored in the harbor of Algiers, whither she had proceeded under command of Comtnodore Preble, having on board, among other officers, Charles Stewart, then an acting Lieu-

It was the watch of young Stewart, and he was pacing to and fro upon the deck, about half an hour after suuset, when he saw a small boat, containing a single person, coming off from the Old Point, as the western part of the town is called, and heading directly for the

This person was rowing with all his neight, and Stewart was not long in discovering the cause. Close behind the single Loatman was seen a large cover, filled with men, whose presence was announced by a continued liring at the person of whom they were in such aletermined pursuit, holding on their way until they were under the very gurs of the ship.

Now, by my soul!" cried Stewart, "may I be shot if I don't teach those fellows a lesson. Stand by, Mr. Rogers," he added, addressing a favorite gunner; "to throw a a little grape at that fellow."

An instant later, a wreath of smoke curled up from the side of the ship, and as the report went booming over the water the iron messenger sped on its way, crashing into the pursuing boat, severely wounding two or three of her crew. She instantly turned to put back at the same time that the fugitive reached his destination, and came up the side into the presence of the officer of the deck. He was an elderly man, with a stout frame and brown leatures; but it required but a single glance from the Lic itenant to see that he was English or American. As soon as he was sufficiently recovered from his over-exertion to breathe, he went on to tell his story, to which Stewart listened with much excitement.

The new comer was an American citizen, named Jam's Collins, a native of New York, who, with his wife and daughter, had been taken from an American vessel at the same time as its commander and crew, two years before, by an Algeriue pirate. His wife had since ched, and he and his claughter had endured since his capture all the horrors of a hopeless and aggravated captivity; but the worst part of the poor min's story, and that which moved Lieutenant Stewart the most, was the aunouncement that his daughter, a ther as slaves.

"My agony at these circumstances culminated not two hours ago," limished the father, though I have succeeded in reaching this boat's crew under your orders"-

"(Ine moment," interrupted Stewart. "Stay where you are until I have seen Commodore

One moment the young Lientenant was cngaged with his commander in the cabin, and then he came forth, with a stern smile of satisfaction on his features. Ten minutes more sen men pushed off in the darkness, with the Lieutenant and the stranger in the stern, and rapidly struck out for the shore.

"Our owner," said Mr. Collins, "resides in established, but I do not apprehend that we skill have any special trouble from that source. I think we can land below, go up the street to the house, and carry off my child, and all without losing a man."

The beat landed, after twenty minutes of rapid progress, at a small wharf near the Geleta, in the western part of the town. The arrival was certainly observed, but not a great deal of attention was bestowed upon it by the stupid Algeriues. Leaving a part of list me in the cutter with orders to lie down and it is flowed in the manner.

THE VESPER GAS

The Chealest, most convenient Artificial Light in the World?

The Vesper Gas Light has wen for itself a reputation for eleganee, economy, safety, and simplicity far beyond may other artificial light. The Vesper Gas fame and fattures precessely resemble in form those of eonl gas; but in brilliancy and parity of light, it possesses a decided advantage over even Lonisville and gas. It requires no chimnes; there is no need of daily trimming of wick; and the eonstruction of the fixture is so simple that it is not lable to get out of order, and a cloud can manage it readily. The gas burned in the Vesper fixtures is generated from pure coal oil, without any admixture of alcohol or other foreign ingredient. It is entirely free from oder while hurning, as, by a simple contrivance, the vapor of the oil is nixed with the attack, who have had it in constant use for months, as me st pleasant to the eye while reading or sewing, there I engine ficker or unsteadiness in the fame. The Vesper Gas Light is portable, and can he used in town or country—in fact, wherever artificial light is required. The fixtures themselves are adapted in styles to suit all tastes, from the plain single-light burner to the most costly chandeher. Each phundleier is perfect in itself; there is no outlay to be made for service pipes. The gas is generated in the hurner, and all fixtures, from the plain single-light hurner to the expensive chandelier, are unnitature gas-works in the emetics. They are sold at prices which do not exceed the cost of the ordinary gas fixtures of similar to procure the expensive chandelier, are unnitature gas-works in the emetics. The Business located by us at No. 677 Broadway, New York City, is the oldest established house in the country, and is known world-wide as the original "Evans & Co.'s Gift Bookstore." Man have taken the advantage of our popularity to advertise under the same name, to increase their trade—and to protect the few who may be unaequainted with us, we would state that we have no connection with any other Gift Book House—and though many advertise under the name of Evans & Co., the firm constituted by D. W. EVANS and J. H. PRESTON, is the first and only concern rightfully using the same. But to prevent all confusion in the future, we shall use the style of and all persons wrongfully using the appellation to unislend the public, will be made to suffer the penalty of the law.
